Rules of Procedure @SISMUN

Points

Point of Personal Privilege

Used when something prevents a delegate from participating comfortably or hearing/understanding the proceedings.

Example:
"I cannot hear the delegate."

Point of Order

Used when the delegate believes the Chair or committee has not followed the Rules of Procedure.

Example:
"Point of Order: The previous motion was not entertained according to the stated procedure."

Point of Information

Used to ask a question about the proceedings or, depending on the conference rules, about a speech.

Important: The exact use of Points of Information can vary by MUN.

Motions

A motion is a formal proposal made by a delegate to change what the committee is doing.

Common motions include:

- Motion to open the Speakers' List
- Motion for a Moderated Caucus
- Motion for an Unmoderated Caucus
- Motion to introduce a Draft Resolution
- Motion to introduce an Amendment
- Motion to close debate
- Motion to adjourn the meeting

A motion must follow the conference's required format.

Moderated Caucus Rules

A motion should state:

Topic + total duration + individual speaking time

Example:

> "Motion for a 10-minute moderated caucus, with 1-minute speaking time, on the impact of water scarcity."

The Chair determines which motions are entertained and conducts voting according to the Rules of Procedure.

Unmoderated Caucus Rules

During an unmoderated caucus:

- Formal speeches stop.
- Delegates may communicate freely.
- Delegates can move around where permitted.
- Negotiations take place.
- Blocs can form.
- Working papers and draft resolutions can be developed.

Delegates must still follow the Chair's instructions and conference rules.

Speaking Rules

Delegates should:

- Address the Chair appropriately.
- Speak only when recognized.
- Respect speaking time.
- Remain diplomatic.
- Represent their assigned country's position.
- Avoid personal attacks.
- Follow the specified format for speeches.

Yields

When permitted, a delegate may yield remaining speaking time.

Common types include:

Yield to the Chair

The remaining time is returned to the Chair.

Yield to Questions

Other delegates may ask questions, subject to the conference rules.

Yield to Another Delegate

Remaining time is given to another delegate, if permitted.

Note: Not every MUN allows every type of yield.

Right of Reply

A Right of Reply allows a delegate to respond when they believe another delegate has made a serious personal or diplomatic attack against them or their country.

It is not normally used simply because a delegate disagrees with another country's argument.

Voting

There are generally two broad types:

Procedural Voting

Concerns how the committee operates.

Examples:

- Opening a caucus
- Closing debate
- Moving to another procedural stage

Substantive Voting

Concerns the actual content being considered.

Examples:

- Draft resolutions
- Substantive amendments

The exact voting requirements should always follow SIS's conference-specific Rules of Procedure.

Decorum

Delegates are expected to:

- Remain respectful.
- Avoid disruptive behaviour.
- Use diplomatic language.
- Listen while another delegate is speaking.
- Follow the Chair's instructions.
- Avoid personal attacks.
- Stay within their country's assigned foreign policy.

Most important rule:

The Chair controls the flow of the committee.

Delegates should not speak, interrupt, move around, or raise procedural points unless the Rules of Procedure allow them to do so.
